INTO THAT HEAVEN OF FREEDOM ...

Freedom consists in creatively transcending limit situations. This is what I learned as I began studying philosophy years ago. This kept on disclosing deeper meaning to me in my life journey. As humans, we have no escape from limit conditions. But our human spirit constantly stirs us to transcend these and reach beyond. Is it not proper, in the Ignatian tradition, to call the limit situations, 'cannonball moments'? Is not 'conversion' another term for our ability to transcend these (both personal and institutional)? The imagery indicates the ability not to be shattered and the will to bounce back and move on. It is vital that we identify the cannonball moments in our journey together and see how they shape us as companions of Jesus. The recent Superiors' Meeting held online identified some such moments. The digital facilities, despite the Covid-19 restrictions, helped us revisit our apostolic ventures and explore new possibilities. These created alternate platforms to experience union of hearts and minds... The 75th year of independence of our nation invites us not to succumb to the dark clouds of shrinking spaces but soar high into the heaven of freedom in our dreams.

ST MICHAEL'S, KANNUR

July was a month of tension and uncertainty as far as the students of St Michael's were concerned. Right from 1865, they were enjoying the luxury of a vast ground in front of the school. To the dismay of the entire Michaelite family and the public, the military blocked the southern and western boundary of the ground and prevented entry to the public. This problem has been vexing the school for a few years. We have knocked at different doors so as to reach a solution favourable to the school. Please say a short prayer for us. Fr Joseph Kallepallil, our superior, has become less 'sweet' now. With proper medication and control of food intake, his body sugar has become normal. Deo gratias. Apart from the online classes, quite a few up-skilling programmes were conducted here. 'Basheer Smarana' was held here to honour the noted Malayalam literary giant Shri Vaikom Muhammed Basheer and to instil interest in Malayalam literature among our senior students. As part of the 'Reading Week', a series of talks by eminent literary personalities were arranged to enlighten our students on the need of wide reading for cultural enrichment. Fr Bastin organised 'Inigo - 64' an online inter Jesuit schools of Kerala Chess Tournament. Honorable Minister of PWD and Tourism, Govt of Kerala, Mr Muhammed Rias, inaugurated the event. When Loyola Trivandrum bagged the first and second prizes, Sarvodaya School, Eachome took the third prize. 'Sargotsavam', a creative venture of our staff, was conducted online with eminent resource persons to train students in essay writing, art, drama, and storytelling. In solidarity with the universal Society, we too mourned the death of Fr Stan Swamy SJ. A short candle-light prayer service was held here with the participation of the parents, students and teachers.
