PANDEMIC

In the state of Tamil Nadu, especially in the city Madurai, the nationwide lockdown has left thousands of migrant labourers from other states stranded. While some are getting help from their employers, local authorities and philanthropists for survival the rest are getting help after staging protests or highlighting their plight on social media platforms.

In the midst of the lockdown, Madurai province has gone out of its best ability to help the migrant labourers, construction workers and daily wagers through local and national NGO's, staff, teachers, volunteers students etc.
